Good little loco, Meshtools quality (i.e. amongst the best in Train Simulator, IMO).. Lovely little engine ideal dock and shunting work.. This little engine really moves out! High torque and wonderful effects! This is a must have for any collection! I love using this one with two coaches for tourist and heritage runs. The liveries are spot on, the effects are wonderful.. MeshTools creates some fun little engines, and this one is among them. Decent amount of fidelity mixed with a great and interesting little train. I can't recommend it enough.. heritage runs. The liveries are spot on, the effects are wonderful.. Nice loco, nice to drive, beautiful to look at. a steam version of an 03 diesel. happy owner With a few exceptions, I wish I could give this a middle ground review ALL Sounds are from the jinty - every single one. my heart sank when I heard the boiling sound and then the whistle <https://youtu.be/l-Tj2I6U9cs> I get that both these engines are fowler type 0-6-0 steamers and the dock tank is probably a mini jinty in real life but a few different sounds wouldnt hurt at all, im going to have to edit the sounds myself. maybe introduce some pitch differences between the two specs wise it is a different engine, cab is different too. its definately not a copy over I love it. im happy I got it, but I do wish I got this rather than the jinty because I wouldnt have known any different and loved it all the same Not the best result for 13 USD On special and 20 dollars full price lost a little respect for meshtools here. Sadly steam sounds supreme doesnt have a 2F sound pack, as far as im aware theres none left in the wild so that'd be difficult I'm giving it a down thumb. I love it. others will love it just as much im sure but not if you have the jinty already. shes a fairly popular engine so.
